Rare Sense Of Humor—

WHAT THIS country needs, during this election year in particular, is a sharp sense of humor and another Will Rogers to keep it in working order.

For the benefit of the great majority of our residents—the people under 40—Will Rogers was a gum-chewing cowboy philosopher, humorist and entertainer in the 1920's and early 30's. He died in an airplane crash in 1935.

Here are some of Rogers' comments about politics:

"You keep a Republican broke and out of office and pretty near anybody can get along with them."

"You take a Democrat and a Republican and you keep them both out of office and they will turn out to be good friends and maybe useful citizens."

(Writing of a prayer said at the Democratic-National Convention): "The only reference to anything pertaining to the Bible was the word Amen!"

(Nov. 10, 1932): "The returns are pretty much all in, all but Kentucky, they got a law they can't count their votes till everybody sobers up."

"A Democrat is just like a baby, if it's hollering and making a lot of noise there is nothing serious the matter with it."

"Nothing is as bullheaded as a party newspaper, be it Republican or Democrat. People are the first to forget party lines; newspapers are the last."

"The Republicans have their splits right after the election, and Democrats have theirs just before an election."

"I don't make jokes; I just watch the government and report facts."

"With Congress, every time they make a joke it's a law; and every time they make a law it's a joke." — Batesville (Ark.) Guard

Pleasant Weather

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The National Weather Service says pleasant weather is in store for Arkansas through Friday, but the extended outlook calls for a chance of showers again by the weekend.

A large high dominates the mid section of the nation, and the Weather Service said as the system moves eastward a warm flow of southerly air will push temperatures into the upper 70s and mid 80s in Arkansas by Friday.

The forecast calls for sunny and mild today with highs in the 70s and low 80s. Friday is expected to be partly cloudy and warmer.

Highs Thursday were mostly in the 60s and 70s.

Overnight lows included 41 at Fayetteville, 49 at Harrison, 50 at Jonesboro, 51 at Pine Bluff, 50 at Texarkana, 48 at El Dorado, 51 at Memphis, 46 at Little Rock and 43 at Fort Smith.

No precipitation was reported during the 24-hour period ending at 6 a.m. today.

Car Total Loss in Wreck

City Police report two vehicle accidents in Hope Wednesday.

Early Wednesday morning a 1971 Volkswagen driven by Thomas Webb ran a traffic light at the intersection of Third St. and Hervey. A 1964 vehicle driven by Estelle Taylor was traveling East on West Third St. and struck the Webb car broadside. The Volkswagen was a complete loss. Webb has been charged with failure to yield right of way. No injuries were reported. Officer Haltom investigated the accident.

In a second accident, a car driven by Rachel Jordan was hit by a car driven by Willie Hardeman, as the Jordan vehicle was backing out of a parking area. No injuries were reported and damage was minor. Officer Sinyard made the investigation.

Rainbow Trout Produced Here

..An experiment carried out by Arkansas Fish Farm, Inc., operated by Paul Oller, could bring a new product to local and area markets. For years Mr. Oller has produced catfish commercially.

..Catfish eat and grow very little during the winter months. So Mr. Oller, in cooperation with the Arkansas Game & Fish Commission, experimented with Rainbow Trout and a winter fish crop may be the result. The trout, which eat and grow fast during cold weather, were stocked last November in one of Mr. Oller's fish ponds. The harvest made May 2 was about 95 per cent. Paul Oller Jr. is shown cleaning the half pound trout for marketing.

..Only a few were stocked for the experiment which has proved so successful that Mr. Oller plans to stock from 40,000 to 50,000 next winter.

Friend of Nixon

Acting FBI Head Named

By TOM SEPPY
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Dampening the potential fireworks of an election-year debate over the FBI, President Nixon has chosen only a temporary replacement for the late J. Edgar Hoover who ran the agency for 48 years.

Nixon appointed L. Patrick Gray III, an assistant attorney general, as acting FBI director Wednesday and said no permanent appointment will be submitted to the Senate until after the Nov. 7 election.

In following this course, Nixon avoids a replay of the still-smoldering furor over his last major appointment, that of Richard G. Kleindienst to be attorney general.

Gray will not have to be confirmed by the Senate as acting director as would any candidate Nixon named for the job on a permanent basis.

Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler said Nixon will not nominate a permanent FBI chief until after the election because "he doesn't want it (the choice of a successor) considered in the middle of an election year" and perhaps become the subjects of partisan debate. Last Feb. 15, Nixon elevated Kleindienst from deputy attorney general to the top Justice Department position and moved Gray up to the No. 2 job.

Neither nomination has been acted upon by the Senate, and Nixon has now withdrawn Gray's appointment so he may hold down both the FBI helm and his present job as head of the department's civil-rights division at the lower salary of the latter, $38,000.

The Kleindienst nomination became embroiled in debate at Senate Judiciary Committee hearings investigating allegations of Justice Department improprieties in the settlement of antitrust suits against International Telephone & Telephone Corp.

There is little doubt that no matter who Nixon would choose to succeed Hoover, the committee liberals would have forced the bureau to face the most thorough public investigation in its history.

No Progress, Peace Talks Are Suspended

PARIS (AP) — The United States and South Vietnam indefinitely suspended the Vietnam peace conference today.

U.S. delegation chief William J. Porter told newsmen that South Vietnamese Ambassador Pham Dang Lam, speaking for the allied side "did not agree to set a date for the next meeting."

Porter said the decision was made because of "a lack of progress in every available channel" of the peace talks.

North Vietnam at the outset of the 149th session ignored a U.S. demand that it halt its offensive in South Vietnam. The United States had made this issue the first order of business in resuming the talks last week, after suspending the negotiations for five weeks.

Porter said that the decision not to set a date for a new meeting was not altogether a result of today's session at which he said the Communist side "refused to answer any of our questions." His reference to lack of progress in every available channel was taken to mean that secret talks have also been going on.

Xuan Thuy, head of North Vietnam's delegation to the talks, said U.S. charges that North Vietnamese troops have invaded the South are "sheer fabrications."

U.S. delegation chief William J. Porter had demanded last Thursday that Thuy return to today's 149th session of the talks ready to discuss measures to "put an end to this invasion." Porter indicated that if North Vietnam refused to deal with the "substance of the invasion and general problems of peace" there would be no point in continuing the peace talks.

Instead of meeting Porter's demand, Thuy and the Viet Cong delegate, Nguyen Thi Binh, reiterated the main points of the Communist seven-point peace plan.

In rejecting U.S. charges of invasion, Thuy told Porter:

"The irrefutable fact is that the Nixon administration has violated the U.S. engagement to completely and unconditionally stop the bombing and all other acts of war" against North Vietnam.

He repeated questions put to Porter last week: "Is the United States prepared to put an end to its aggression, its Vietnamization and its escalation of the war?"

In contending that U.S. charges of an invasion were fabrication, Thuy quoted the 1954 Geneva conference declaration on division of North and South Vietnam at the 17th parallel: "The military demarcation line is provisional and should not in any way be interpreted as constituting a political or territorial boundary."

"Now the United States regards it as an international border. This fact alone constitutes a violation of the 1954 Geneva agreement by the United States," Thuy said.

Thuy charged that "it is the United States which arrogates to itself the right to invade Vietnam with its ground, air and naval forces and by every possible means, while preventing the Vietnamese people from exercising their legitimate right to self-defense."

Mrs. Binh, the Viet Cong foreign minister, called U.S. proposals to end the war "absurd" and plowed back into the main points of the Communist plan.

She called for the United States to set a "specific terminal date" for total troop withdrawal, immediate resignation of South Vietnam's president, Nguyen Van Thieu, the establishment of a government of "national concord" and general elections.

North Vietnam declared earlier today that negotiations offer the most advantageous way to settle the Vietnam war, but if the United States continues its present war policies it will erect "serious obstacles" to a solution.

Hanoi Ambassador Xuan Thuy called on President Nixon to halt the bombing of North and South Vietnam, end his program of Vietnamization and his support of South Vietnamese President Nguyen Van Thieu.

North Vietnamese Politburo member Le Duc Tho did not attend the session. Thuy said in answer to newsmen's questions that Tho "is at our headquarters studying the files of the conferences." There was no hint from either Thuy or Mrs. Binh that secret conversations with the United States had begun.

Counter Attack Is Launched

SAIGON (AP) — South Vietnamese troops launched their first counterattack today since the enemy began an offensive 10 days ago. At the same time, the government and the United States began a crash program aimed at reversing military defeats.

Several hundred South Vietnamese paratroopers made a combat assault in the central highlands in an effort to clear North Vietnamese from the Chu Pa mountain pass on Highway 14 between Kontum and Pleiku. They sought to reopen the highway, a vital supply route.

Field reports said 40 North Vietnamese troops had been killed in the initial fighting.

Associated Press correspondent David J. Paine reported from Pleiku that the combat assault was made eight miles south of Kontum and 19 miles north of Pleiku.

The South Vietnamese paratroopers ran into enemy resistance shortly after being landed by helicopters and at dusk, fighting was still reported.

The Saigon command said fighting countrywide had slackened off to its lowest level of the North Vietnamese offensive. Sightings of truck convoys, however, indicated that the enemy was pausing again to regroup and resupply for another wave of assaults. The old imperial capital of Hue was believed the main target.

Ever since the enemy launched its offensive March 30, the South Vietnamese have been on the defensive, either retreating or barely holding onto positions.

The United States launched a top priority program to replace heavy South Vietnamese equipment losses sustained in a series of setbacks on the northern front and in the central highlands.

Casualties Decrease

SAIGON (AP) — The South Vietnamese and U.S. commands reported today a decrease in their casualty tolls for the fourth week of the North Vietnamese offensive. Saigon headquarters said the number of enemy killed last week climbed.

U.S. headquarters listed two Americans killed in action last week, a drop of eight from the previous week. However, the command announcement also showed an increase of 19 to 27 in the number of Americans missing in action. Many of these were crewmen lost in planes or helicopters shot down in inaccessible areas.

U.S. headquarters said 24

Americans were wounded in action last week, a drop of 54 from the 78 total of the previous week. Six Americans died last week from nonhostile causes, the command said.

South Vietnamese headquarters reported its casualties last week were 769 men killed, 2,794 wounded and 319 missing. The totals the previous week were 1,149 killed and 3,376 wounded, the heaviest casualties of the war for South Vietnamese forces.

Saigon headquarters listed 5,031 enemy killed last week, compared with 4,890 the previous week.

The reports issued today did not include casualties in the final fighting for Quang Tri City, the provincial capital in the far north which fell Monday.

The allied commands now have reported these total casualties for the war:

American—45,715 killed in action, 303,017 wounded, 10,146 dead from nonhostile causes.

South Vietnamese—141,374 killed in action, 358,699 wounded.

North Vietnamese and Viet Cong—825,701 killed.

Food Prices "Too Low"?

MERCERVILLE, N.J. (AP) — Secretary of Agriculture Earl Buttz says food prices are "too low" and that it would be unfair to place price controls on raw farm products.

Buttz called Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., a demagogue for his criticism of corporate farmers.

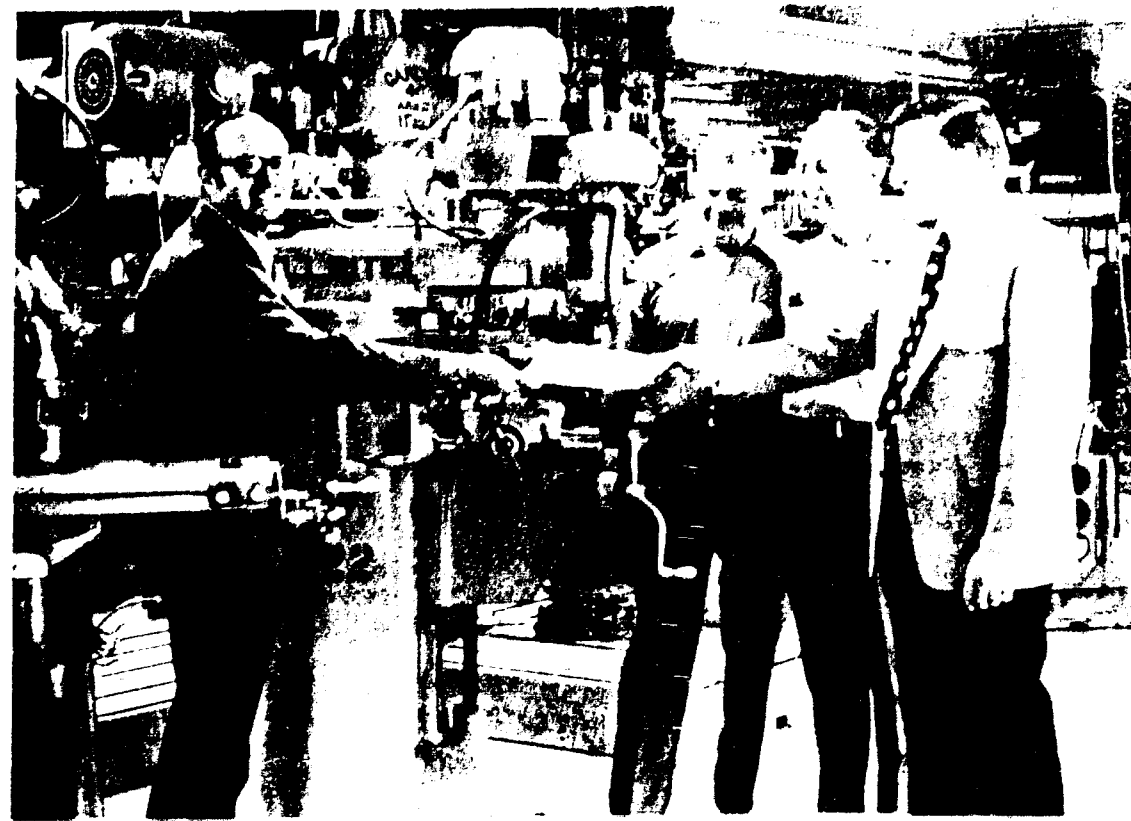

Buttz said price controls wouldn't work on farm products without rationing because the prices fluctuate seasonally.

"If you have price ceilings, as secretary of agriculture, I should have insisted on price floors," said Buttz.

Buttz said the migration from farms to cities is a great tragedy. He said it is necessary to insure decent profits to keep young men on farms.

Buttz also said he favored restrictive zoning to save farms in urban states.

Smith Blair, Inc., a subsidiary of Rockwell Manufacturing Company, has donated to Red River Vocational Technical School a Milrite Vertical Milling Machine. William L. Bill Berger, Production Manager for the Texarkana manufacturing plant, arranged for the transfer. In transferring the property, Berger said, Smith Blair is very interested in Red River Vocational Technical School's progress, and is interested in its programs. Berger and Leon Brown, Fabrication Superintendent, are on the Weaving Advisory Committee at the school, with Berger serving as

In addition to this donation, the plant has donated steel from time to time for use in the training program according to J. W. Rowe, Director.

58 Still Missing in Mine

By JACK MAYNE
Associated Press Writer
KELLOGG, Idaho AP — Sweating rescue teams struggled almost a mile underground today, trying to reach 56 miners still unheard from three days after smoke began filling the Sunshine silver mine.

Mine officials hoped they would find survivors, saying a large amount of air are being sent through breathing pipes that run through the mine.

Twenty-four persons were known to have died in the murky, hot shafts of the nation's richest and deepest silver producer.

Rescue workers sought to reach the mine's No. 10 hoist, a vertical elevator shaft they hoped would give access to the 4,000-foot level where the missing miners were believed to be. Sunshine officials said.

The director of the U.S. Bureau of Mines, Osborne Eilbert, said at the scene that safety inspections in 1970 and 1971 had been corrected, as of last January and there was no reason to believe they were connected with the fire.

The New York Times said today in a story from its Washington bureau that reports to the Bureau of Mines showed that the mine had repeatedly failed to meet time limits for correcting safety hazards.

The Times said most of the unabated hazards involved failure to provide proper guards for compressors and similar equipment. It said the inspectors judged that none of the infractions cited in November and January was a hazard constituting an imminent danger. A federal law authorizes federal inspectors to close mines immediately if they determine such dangers exist.

The pipe for the air system, that mine officials hoped the trapped men were using, runs through the mine shafts at chest level. Miners carry tube-like wrenches that enable them to tap into the line and breathe out air.

A mine spokesman said, however, that carbon monoxide the fire generated would be so concentrated that a man could be killed if he took his mouth from the tube.

HOPE (ARK.) STAR, Printed by Offset Housing Kickbacks Common

WASHINGTON AP — Inmate and lucrative ties bound New York City's second-largest mortgage company to speculators precipitating major scandals in the government's inner-city home-ownership program according to testimony given a Senate subcommittee.

Records indicated that between 1969 and 1972, officers of United Institutional Servicing Corp. extended through a subsidiary of their mortgage firm $6.5 million in loans to New York speculators at interest rates between 18 and 21 percent. The loans enabled speculators to buy often-decrepit houses, destined for resale to poor families at large profits.

Speculators in return steered mortgage business to United and paid the firm's employees kickbacks averaging several thousand dollars a year per man, according to testimony before the Senate antitrust and monopoly subcommittee.

Affidavits and testimony showed one of United's salesmen collected commissions on mortgage business he placed with his firm in his off-hours business as a speculator. In turn, the salesman, Kiva Berwald, paid other United employees and title-insurance companies kickbacks of up to $68 at each closing on his properties, Berwald's records showed.

The subcommittee is examining allegations that financial institutions, such as mortgage companies and banks, have aided speculators in plundering the Federal Housing Administration through sale of dilapidated houses to families who can't afford the repairs and upkeep.

Fighting Ability of South Vietnamese Very Doubtful

WASHINGTON AP — Doubt about South Vietnamese fighting ability has come from unexpected Senate quarters in debate over cutting off the money for all U.S. combat involvement in Indochina.

Republican whip Robert P. Griffin said, but to vote for a cutoff, though it would not be effective until Dec. 31, would undercut President Nixon and encourage the enemy.

And, the Michigan senator said, passage of a cutoff would be a futile gesture, since the legislation is subject to consideration by the House and by Nixon.

Stennis, D-Miss., noted that enemy forces had overrun Quang Tri city and are advancing on the old imperial capital of Hue.

"As that battle goes, it's going to be hard for the South Vietnamese without the assistance of our ground troops to recover from these damaging blows," he said. But Stennis said he doubts Nixon will recommit U.S. ground troops to the war.

"I want to get out, and everybody here does," Stennis continued, often thumping his desk. "But you scratch the surface, and the American people don't want to be driven out like a whipped dog."

Of the measure's supporters, Stennis said: "I challenge their mind and their patriotism in considering the timeliness of this."

If the Senate votes a cutoff, said Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., "I think I can draw a ring around the year world war III started."

Sen. J. W. Fulbright, D-Ark., and his Foreign Relations Committee wrote the cutoff, sponsored by Sens. Clifford P. Case, R-N.J., and Frank Church, D-Idaho, into the legislation setting spending limits for the State Department.

None of the three chose to answer Stennis and the others in debate Wednesday. An aide to one of them said, "You can't discuss it at that level."

Stennis pushed hard all day Wednesday for a quick vote on deleting the Case-Church Amendment. Case-Church supporters want to vote next week.

Ordered to File Price Lists

By BROOKS JACKSON
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON AP — Prices charged by over half the nation's largest firms have been frozen, and the Price Commission is notifying the companies to file overdue reports on face price rollbacks and possible fines.

The commission, ordering the freeze Wednesday, estimated that nearly 1,600 firms have not filed reports on their economic status, the most recent of which were due Monday.

Chairman C. Jackson Grayson said the commission also will notify each delinquent firm that unless it files a report within five working days, the commission will cut its prices and ask the Justice Department to take court action that could lead to fines of up to $2,500.

Commission rules generally require firms with more than $50 million in yearly sales to file reports every three months. Firms that raise prices must give details, and firms that have not must say so.

By last Monday, all such firms should have filed at least one report. Grayson estimated there are 2,954 firms required to file reports, but that only 1,375 have done so. He did not name the delinquent ones, but a commission spokesman said a list would be released in a few days.

Grayson also said the commission decided this week not to change regulations exempting food prices from President Nixon's economic controls, but will ask for stepped-up enforcement of existing rules and will watch food supplies closely to forecast possible problems.

The commission held public hearings on food costs a few weeks ago, and Grayson said action would be taken unless a sharp rise in food prices slackened.

Since then, Grayson said, the commission has seen "sufficient easing" in food prices.

He announced also that the commission reaffirmed its rule limiting firms that desire to raise prices to specific profit margins. But it rejected, 4 to 2, a proposal to apply the profit margin limit to firms that have held prices steady, he said.

And he said a new regulation has gone into effect to require manufacturers to pass along productivity gains to customers as lower prices. The rule was first adopted several weeks ago, but didn't take effect immediately because details had to be worked out.

The commission also ordered Armco Steel Corp. to cut prices of oil-field equipment on grounds it raised them without permission. Armco estimated the order will require it to refund between $10,000 and $30,000. An Armco spokesman said the firm voluntarily reported the failure to file to the commission.

Testimony in Davis Trial

By EDITH M. LEDERER
Associated Press Writer
SAN JOSE, Calif. (AP) — Angela Davis purchased a cheap shotgun two days before it was used to blow off a judge's head during a 1970 courthouse gun battle, two gun salesmen testified.

Gun dealers Frank M. Blumenthal and David B. Iafson said Wednesday that Miss Davis was accompanied by a young Negro man when she purchased the gun at the Eagle Loan Co. pawnshop in San Francisco on Aug. 5, 1970—but neither could positively identify him as Jonathan Jackson.

Previous witnesses have testified that Jonathan Jackson brandished a revolver in the courtroom of Superior Court Judge Harold J. Haley on Aug. 7, 1970, and with the help of three convicts taped a sawed-off shotgun to the judge's neck.

The four kidnapers led the judge and four hostages to a yellow getaway van which never made it out of the Marin County Civic Center because of a volley of gunfire that left Jackson, Judge Haley and two of the convicts dead.

The prosecution contends Miss Davis furnished Jackson four guns and helped him plot the abortive escape attempt because she was in love with his older brother, George Jackson, and was driven by uncontrolled passion to free him from San Quentin Prison.

In the state's theory, the hostages were to be traded for George Jackson's freedom, presumably at San Francisco Airport where Miss Davis was waiting.

Blumenthal identified the sawed-off shotgun found in the yellow van as the 12-gauge Spanish shotgun he sold Miss Davis about 5 p.m. on Aug. 5. He said she wanted "an inexpensive one" and the shotgun cost about $35.

Watermelons
Editor The Star: Mr. Rogers, in the Spring of 1970 I planted the watermelon seeds that you sent me in April 1970 and you wanted to know how they did in the California soil and climate.

I do not know if it was due to the hot weather the melons grew to about 12 lbs. I planted melons again in 1971 from the seeds of my melons and from the first seeds you sent me. From the first seeds they grew to about 25 lbs. We had a very hot summer and that might again be the reason for this.

I would like to plant some again this year and would appreciate your sending me a package. Enclosed is $1.00 for the seeds. I will let you know how these turn out.

Thanks very much. Sincerely,

Presbyterian Speaker

The Rev. John F. Martin of Camden, Executive Secretary of Ouachita Presbytery, will be the guest speaker at the Presbyterian Church in Hope at the 11:00 o'clock hour on Sunday, May 7th.

Mr. Martin is a graduate of the United States Naval Academy, Davidson College, and Austin Presbyterian Seminary. He is also secretary of Presbytery's Commission on the Minister and His Work and, as such, will play a vital role in assisting the local Presbyterian Church in calling a new pastor.

Queen Plans to Visit Duke

LONDON AP — Queen Elizabeth II plans to call on her uncle, the Duke of Windsor and formerly King Edward VIII, during a state visit to France later this month.

A Buckingham Palace spokesman said the meeting would be a "private family visit" at the duke's home in Bois du Boulogne May 18. The British monarch will be returning to Versailles from a horse race France is holding to mark her visit.

Nation in Tribute to Hoover

By TOM SEPPY
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon today led the nation in last tributes to J. Edgar Hoover, calling him a giant, a legend and an American institution.

Nixon said the FBI, which Hoover spent 48 years building into a world-renowned law enforcement institution, will stand as a living memorial to Hoover.

And he called on Americans to live the spirit of law and order as a continuing tribute to Hoover.

"J. Edgar Hoover loved the law, his God," Nixon said. "He loved the law, his country. And he richly earned peace through all eternity."

Nixon delivered a eulogy to the fallen FBI chief at the National Presbyterian Church, where Hoover had been a deacon.

Hoover was found dead at his home Tuesday morning.

The 1,200-seat church was filled with presidential aides, Cabinet members, members of Congress, diplomats, and public mourners.

Mrs. Dwight D. Eisenhower sat near the President. Vice President Spiro T. Agnew attended.

"One of the tragedies of life is that as a rule a man's true greatness is recognized only in death," Nixon said. "J. Edgar Hoover was one of the rare exceptions to that rule. He became a living legend while still a young man and he lived up to that legends as the decades passed."

Nixon said Hoover personified integrity, honor, principle, courage, discipline, dedication, loyalty and patriotism.

"We can pay him no greater tribute than to live these virtues," he said. "To love the law as he loved it and to give full cooperation to the law enforcement profession which he did so much to advance."

The service was nationally broadcast live on radio and television.

A private burial service was planned today in Congressional Cemetery, only a few blocks from Hoover's boyhood home and not far from the Capitol where his body lay in state for 24 hours.

Negotiate, Then Test, Dock Workers Told

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A federal judge says West Coast dockworkers and shippers can negotiate a $20 million escrow arrangement in a pay dispute, then test its legality in a suit that a federal lawyer says could wipe out wage and price controls.

"If everybody can get an escrow like this, then there can be no wage and price controls," declared E. Grey Lewis, an attorney for the Justice Department.

U.S. District Court Judge Albert C. Wollenberg handed down the escrow decision Wednesday in a suit by the International Longshoremen's and Warehousemen's Union against the Pay Board.

The union is contesting the Pay Board action that reduced from 20 per cent to 14 per cent the wage hike won by dockworkers in their 134-day strike against the Pacific Maritime Association.

The union proposed that the PMA put this disputed 6 per cent—amounting to $20 million in wages—into escrow to be distributed to union members at the expiration of their contract in 1973 or when the Pay Board changes its regulations.

PMA President Edmund J. Flynn refused to bargain on the proposal, saying a Pay Board executive advised him by telephone that it would not be legal. The union used the Pay Board on these grounds.

Judge Wollenberg ruled that both parties are free to negotiate the proposal and find out later whether it is legal.

Large Lay Off Expected

FORT SMITH, Ark. (AP) — About 400 employees are expected to be laid off work in mid-July when the General Electric Co. here switches from appliance to air-conditioning products.

Plant Manager Fred McKinney said Wednesday that GE had been faced with an excess of small houseware appliances.

McKinney said that GE Central Air Conditioning Department would take over the plant and would employ about 90 persons initially.

Helen and Sue Bottel The Generation Gap

Let Her Live Her Own Life
DEAR SUE AND HELEN:
My mother, who is around 50, is trying to act like someone in her 20s, just because she's a size 10. She's bought boots, midis, a cape, and even cut her hair in a shag.

I think she looks weird, but my father thinks it's great. Next thing, he'll be wearing bells and skinny-ribbed shirts!

How can I convince Mom to dress her age?—
EMBARRASSED
DEAR EMB:

What do you want, a Mother Hubbard for Mom? Be glad she's young at heart—with a figure to match—just so she draws the line at hot pants.

Would you give up a style because another generation didn't like it? I'll bet she doesn't dictate what YOU wear—so pay her the same compliment. (She probably deserves one; the outfit you describe sounds great for older women.)—SUE
DEAR EMBARRASSED:

I have news for you, chickabiddy: A woman dresses to please her husband, not her children—if she's a smart little wife, that is.

And what's wrong with bells and skinny-ribbed shirts on middle-aged men whose "middles" haven't aged?

If you've still got it, sez I, flaunt it! A girl should be proud of parents who do.—HELEN DEAR RAP:

Dale was the first boy I ever dated. We went steady a year and got engaged at 16. Then Ray persuaded me marriage with Dale would be very shaky, so we broke up and I started going with Ray. Also steady.

It didn't work. In six months I wanted to be free. But now I am worried. I can't stay true to any one guy—seems like I'm always seeking someone else.

I get tired of boys, and date different ones almost every week. It's like when I begin to get serious about one, another will ask me out and I think Wow, how could I have thought I dug on him? I was never very popular before. Suddenly I am. I love being in demand, but I can't fall

Television and Radio

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — "The Flying Nun," a bit of comedy fluff that soared—often a bit on the wobbly side—through four ABC seasons during the fantasy vogue, is earning a bachelor's degree and has already built a house for one of its costars.

Madeleine Sherwood, a Methodist minister's granddaughter who played a dry, permissive mother superior in the series, will be opening next week in Joseph Papp's off-Broadway production, "Older People." But her television experience opened avenues to new experiences and gave her financial security.

"The Flying Nun," after its network run, moved into syndication where it is shown on independent stations. Under current actors' contracts, performers share in rerun profits of television series, payments called "residuals."

"It is around $10,000 a year," said Miss Sherwood. "When I was working on the show, I was putting most of my money into building a home on family land, in the mountains and on a lake about 40 miles north of Montreal. Now I hope to build a theater in human relations there and make it the nucleus of a workshop."

"People kept telling me that a television series for an actor was like an annuity, but I never quite believed it. By the second year of the series—I was in Hollywood eight months of the year working—I was beginning to feel stir-crazy, just working and living in a hotel. I went to Esalen in Big Sur for a week-end, and that was the beginning."

She continued to attend Esalen workshops, studying the humanist psychology movement, joining encounter groups others. They represented hope in our country, state, and community which we all should do especially since we live in a town named Hope. Instead of turning our heads at problems of today and putting down things we can change if we only put forth an effort.

in love
Kissing is as far as I go. Sometimes I don't enjoy it, sometimes I do. Helen and Sue, is my desire to go out will all these boys normal?—UNTRUE
DEAR UN:

It's normal—if you're having fun. You probably got tired of being tied down and now you want to check out all the possibilities before you settle for one.—SUE
DEAR UN:

But don't let sudden popularity turn you into a scalp-hunter. You're smart NOT to fall in love at 16, but don't date a boy you can't even LIKE. Better to stay home than spend an evening with a bore.—HELEN
DEAR HELEN AND SUE:

I'm 17, going with a guy of 23. He's just great but he won't go to my senior prom with me, even though I get the tickets. Says he doesn't like proms.

My friends tell me to persuade him by threatening to ask someone else if he won't take me. A fella at school would be my escort (we're just friends), but isn't that kind of—COLDBLOODED
DEAR C.B.:

How many senior proms will you have in your life? Don't beg or threaten. Just GO—with whichever guy wants to take you. Surely your older man will understand.—SUE
DEAR C.B.:

Especially if you "understand" a 23-year-old's reluctance to attend a high school dance—and tell him you've found a way to get him off the hook.—HELEN

By: GLENDA ROZEMAN
Q. I recently began working as a waitress. My wages per hour are not high; however, I am a good worker and people have been generous to me with their tips. My employer says I must tell him how much I collect in tips. Is this the law?

A. Yes, providing your tips exceed $20 per month. The law not only requires your employer to keep a record of your tips, it also requires that you furnish him a report in writing on or before the 10th day following the month in which the tips were received. A report of your tips is not required if they amount to less than $20 in any month.

Q. Does my employer have to pay the employer's share of my social security contributions on tips?

A. No. He pays only the employer's share on the wages he pays you. On the reported tips you must pay your share of the social security contribution up to the annual maximum of $7800 for wages and tips combined. The employer is exempt by law from paying the social security contribution on your tips.

Q. I usually collect all the tips at the tables I serve, later I share them with other employees like the bus boys. What amount do I report?

A. Report on your Tip Record only the amount of tips you retain for yourself. The other employees must also report their tips in the same manner if they reach or exceed $20 per month.

Q. My husband and I have been separated for several years but not divorced. He plans to apply for social security benefits next month. Since I am 62 I would like to know if I can get wife's benefits. If I received wife's benefits would his payments be reduced?

A. The separation of a husband and wife does not prevent a wife from receiving wife's benefits as long as there is no divorce. Payment of wife's benefits does not reduce payments to her husband. You should apply for wife's benefits as soon as your husband applies for his social security payments. Bring proof of your date of birth and your social security number when you visit the social security office. Social Security Administration P.O. Box 1419 Texarkana, Texas 75501

Travs Win Twin Bill

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Wednesday night was a bad night for winning streaks in the West Division of the Texas League.

Midland beat San Antonio 9-4 after the Brewers had stopped the Cubs in their last four games, and El Paso defeated Amarillo 7-2 after the Giants had won seven straight.

In East Division games, first place Memphis edged Alexandria 5-4 and Arkansas won two games from Shreveport 3-2 and 2-1.

Former Pan American University star Jim Tyrone clubbed two home runs and Matt Alexander had three hits as Midland won the last game of a five-game series with San Antonio.

For El Paso, which moved into first place with its first victory in seven games, Rick Rhoten pitched a seven-hit complete game and the Sunbeaters scored five runs in the fourth inning.

Greg Harts' two-run homer in the second inning proved to be the margin of victory for Memphis as Don Kany won his first game in four decisions for the Blues with relief help in the last four innings.

Arkansas moved to within half a game of the Blues as Rick Folkers hit a solo homer in the eighth inning of the scheduled seven-inning first game with Shreveport and pitched hitless relief with six strikeouts in three innings. The Travelers won the second game as Jeff Mason and Steve Brady homered for three of Arkansas' four runs.

Tonight's schedule has Shreveport at Memphis, Arkansas at Alexandria, El Paso at Midland and Amarillo at San Antonio.

No Olympics for Walton

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Bill Walton, All-American center on UCLA's national basketball champions, will not try out for the U.S. Olympic basketball team it was announced Wednesday.

An NCAA spokesman said doctors advised the 6-foot-11 Walton not to attend the trials this summer. He has a history of knee trouble.

Ready for Their First Appearances

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Mario Andretti and Peter Revson were ready to make their first appearances on the track today in practice for the May 27 Indianapolis 500-mile race.

Andretti, the 1969 winner, and Revson, last year's pole sitter, returned here Wednesday from the Spanish Grand Prix.

Revson still holds the official Indianapolis Speedway track record at just over 179 miles an hour, set during qualifications last year. But a number of drivers have eclipsed the 180 m.p.h. mark already this year.

Bobby Unser set an unofficial record last month during tire tests with a sizzling speed of over 190.

Two more drivers joined the 180 m.p.h. club Wednesday — Gary Bettenhausen, at 181.4, and Gordon Johncock, at 180.036.

The fastest speed of the day was by Jim Malloy who ripped off a 185.5 clocking in his Offenhauser-powered racer.

Unser drove his Gurney-Eagle at 183.3, while his brother Al, winner of the last two Indy 500s, was clocked at 181.2.

In all, 23 cars made it out on the track Wednesday, including

North-South Golf Classic

PINEHURST, N.C. (AP) —

The third and fourth rounds of the North and South men's amateur golf tournament were scheduled today after being postponed by heavy rain Wednesday.

The finals now are set for Sunday instead of Saturday.

The 32 players remaining in the match-play event reached only the fourth hole before the rains came. They were to start today from that point.

Defending champion, Eddie Pearce of Wake Forest University and Temple Terrace, Fla., was one down in his match with Danny Yates of Atlanta.

Another Wake Forest golfer, Jim Simons of Butler, Pa., was even with Dr. Edward Updegraff of Tucson, Ariz., at the fourth hole.

Ouachita in Clincher

ARKADELPHIA, Ark. (AP) — Ouachita Baptist University clinched the Arkansas Intercollegiate Conference baseball title here Wednesday by sweeping a doubleheader from the University of Arkansas at Monticello.

Ouachita has a 24-4 season record and a 13-3 mark in AIC play. Second-place Harding is 8-4 with four AIC games left.

OBU bombed UAM 12-0 in the first game and then won 3-2 in the nightcap.

Buddy Adcock fanned six and yielded only three hits in gaining the victory in the first game. David Lynch twirled a five-hitter for Ouachita in the second game.

Lakers' Hot Third Fatal to Knicks

NEW YORK (AP) — "We played like we did all year in that third quarter," Jerry West said. "We ran."

The Los Angeles Lakers literally ran away from New York in that period, then shut down a fourth-quarter Knicks rally to post a 107-96 victory Wednesday night and run up a 2-1 lead in their best-of-seven National Basketball Association championship series.

"When we came to New York," West said, "we were hoping for a split of the two games here. Now, of course, we're looking for a sweep."

The fourth game is set for Friday night in Madison Square Garden, then the scene shifts back to Los Angeles Sunday for game No. 5.

In tonight's only pro basketball playoff action, the New York Nets and Virginia Squires collide in the seventh and deciding game of their American Basketball Association Eastern Division finals.

The Knicks led 28-23 after one period but, thanks to a tenacious Los Angeles defense, fell behind by five at the half.

Then the Lakers really went to work, outgunning the Knicks 20-5 in the first six minutes of the third quarter to take a 72-52 lead. They went up by as many as 22 points before New York closed the gap to 80-65 going into the final 12 minutes.

And the Knicks continued to chip away at the lead, cutting it to as few as seven before fading in the closing minutes.

"We weren't too concerned about it," West said of the Knicks' charge. "In a situation like that, when they're down so far, they've got to make every shot and they've got to keep from fouling and they've got to stop us completely."

West wasn't the Lakers' scoring leader. He got 21 points while Wilt Chamberlain, dominating the offensive boards, led everybody with 26 points. Gail Goodrich added 25.

Chamberlain also controlled the defensive boards, along with Happy Hairston. Each of them hauled down 20 rebounds.

But West reached a plateau of his own. With 3:08 remaining, he canned a long jumper to become the first player in NBA history to pass the 4,000-point mark in playoff games.

That signifies two or three things: "The star guard said of his feat—4,001 points in 133 post-season contests—that I've been in a lot of playoff games, that this is a good team to get me in them—and that I shoot a lot."

The Knicks were led by Walt Frazier with 25 points and Jerry Lucas with 23. But Dave DeBusschere, who played 20 minutes, all in the first half, despite a pulled muscle in his right side above the hip, went scoreless.

Pirates Begin Making Like World Champions Again

By HERSCHEL NISSENSEN,

Associated Press Sports Writer

Any resemblance between the Pittsburgh Pirates of 1972 and the world champions of 1971 has been purely coincidental until Wednesday night.

After their pitching staff was battered in six straight games, all losses, the Pirates snapped out of their doldrums with a 3-2 victory over the Houston Astros in the sixth-hitting of Dick Ellis and Bruce Kison and Rene Snennett's two-run triple.

Just because you win one game doesn't take any heat off, said freshman manager Bill Virdon, "but it's always nice to break the ice."

Elsewhere in the National League, the New York Mets whipped San Francisco 6-5, the Chicago Cubs trounced Atlanta 12-1, Philadelphia cut Angeles 5-1, St. Louis edged Cincinnati 2-1 and San Diego nipped Montreal 3-2 in 14 innings.

Pittsburgh nipped Houston starter Jerry Reuss for an unearned run in the first inning when Dave Cash walked, stole second, went to third on short-stop Roger Metzger's error and scored on Manny Sanguillen's sacrifice fly.

Stennett, normally an infielder but stationed in left field for ailing slugger Willie Stargell, tripled in the second following Richie Hebner's single and another walk to Cash.

Ellis, meanwhile, looked sharp in his first appearance since he injured his heel April 20 and kept the Astros scoreless until the sixth, when Metzger doubled and Lee May singled.

Kison, a World Series hero, was touched for a run in the seventh on John Edwards' single, a wild pitch and Norm Mille's pinch double, but the youngster slammed the door after that.

The Giants concluded one of the worst home stands in San Francisco's major league history with a 1-0 victory over the Oakland Athletics.

A double by Bench and Tony Perez' blop single put runners at first and third with none out. But Cesar Geronimo, running for Bench, was trapped off third on Ted Uhlaender's grounder to second and run down.

Leron Lee greeted reliever Denny Lemaster with a run-scoring single in the 14th inning, giving San Diego its win over Montreal. Lemaster relieved Tom Walker after Enzo Hernandez stole second, but Lee singled home the winning run. Kirby, San Diego's starter, pitched six hitless innings before Ron Hunt doubled leading off the seventh.

Winning Takes Luck

By ED SCHUYLER JR.

Associated Press Sports Writer
LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — It just takes racing luck to win the derby," says Grover Stevens who trains Sensitive Music.

From 14 to 19 3-year-old Thoroughbreds are expected to try their luck and test their ability Saturday in the 98th running of the Kentucky Derby.

Entries were scheduled to close at 9:30 a.m., EDT, today. Post time for the 1 1/4-mile, $125,000-added Derby is 5:40 p.m., EDT, Saturday, with television coverage from 5 p.m. 6 p.m. and radio coverage from 5:15-5:45 p.m., both by CBS.

"He's improving every day," Stephens said of Sensitive Music Wednesday and added that if the colt can stay out of trouble he has a good shot.

Arnold Winick, trainer of Hold Your Peace who is the second early favorite to Riva Ridge, also thinks Sensitive Music is a horse to watch.

"Sensitive Music has put two races together in the right way coming up to the Derby," Winick said. Sensitive Music ran fourth in 1 1/4-mile allowance race at Keeneland and then finished second to Riva Ridge in the 1 1/4-mile Blue Grass in his last start.

Of course, Winick has more than just an opposing trainer's interest in Sensitive Music. The colt's sire, Sensitive, stands at Winick's Delray training center in Florida.

Confidence was the order of the day at the barn of No Le Haze, the Louisiana and Arkansas Derby winner who had a five-race winning streak snapped when he finished second in Tuesday's Derby Trial.

"See you in the winner's circle," said Homer Pardue, No Le Haze's trainer.

Lucien Laurin, the trainer of Riva Ridge, while not as outspokenly confident as Pardue, was happy about the chance of his 1971 2-year-old champion.

On hand to watch Riva Ridge gallop was Mrs. John Tweedy, who operates Meadow Stud for her father, Christopher T. Chenery and a brother and sister.

"I have a very clever trainer, and he's been training this horse for the Triple Crown," said Mrs. Tweedy.

Clifford Fagan, executive secretary of the National Federation of State High School Associations, and George Killian, executive director, National Junior College Athletic Association, echoed Wall's request for a television blackout on Tuesday, Fridays and Saturdays, the three days most scholastic basketball games are played.

WASHINGTON (AP) — All professional sports should be subject to antitrust law, "and let nature take its course," Walter Byers told a Senate subcommittee Wednesday.

Byers, executive director of the National Collegiate Athletic Association, said Congress could then "consider on the merits ... specific practices" which could be exempt from the antitrust laws.

"The public-be-damned attitude so often attributed to professional sports is a direct result of its freedom from many basic restraints imposed by the antitrust laws," he said.

Byers was joined by two economists in calling for the Senate antitrust and monopoly subcommittee to vote against a pending bill which would allow the American Basketball Association and the National Basketball Association to merge.

In a somewhat surprising move, several other heads of amateur sports organizations backed the merger measure but asked that some safeguards be written into the bill.

"A merger of the two professional leagues might result in a positive atmosphere for basketball at the collegiate level if certain considerations are provided for," said Bill Wall, athletic director and basketball coach at MacMurray College and president of the National Association of Basketball Coaches.

"We hope that any legislation in this area will provide ... that no professional basketball game telecasts be permitted on Tuesday, Friday or Saturday; and that once a student-athlete enrolls ... that he not be tampered with or signed to a professional contract until that academic year is completed."

Wall also asked the warring pro leagues to cooperate "during an Olympic year to insure that the finest eligible U.S. players be available to represent our country in international competition."

"It is not our intention to enter into other areas of the proposed merger that we feel do not directly pertain to collegiate basketball," Clifford Fagan, executive secretary of the National Federation of State High School Associations, and George Killian, executive director, National Junior College Athletic Association, echoed Wall's request for a television blackout on Tuesday, Fridays and Saturdays, the three days most scholastic basketball games are played.

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — "I've never seen a horse race in my life—I don't know one end of a horse from the other, so this is going to be a very exciting experience for me," said the snow-haired, grand-motherly lady in seat 14-C.

"You haven't lived until you see the Derby," responded the young sailor, across the aisle in 14-F as Flight 331 banked for a landing at Louisville's Standiford Field.

"It's something special. I'm taking leave from the Coast Guard just to see it. Next year I'll be somewhere in the Pacific."

Old and young, rich and poor, bearded hippie and perfumed aristocrat, they began converging on this citadel of bluegrass, country fried chicken and mint juleps today for the 98th running of America's premier horse race.

It's more than Riva Ridge, No Le Haze, Lucien Laurin, a bunch of fragile thoroughbreds, trainers and jockeys. It's a happening, a week-end of high jinks and wild delirium.

"Some friends invited me down," explained the soft-spoken lady with the gray hair, who identified herself as a retired school teacher from Bridgeport, Conn., Helen Lockwood, author of two books.

"They said they had $35 tickets in the grandstand but suggested that I would enjoy it more in the infield. So I will be in the infield."

"You won't see much of the box," Elmdorf Farm's Big Spruce and Rokeby Stable's Head of the River were entered within a few minutes of Kentucky.

Then, A.E. Reinhold dropped in the name of Big Brown Bear, saying that he was spending $20 to change the ownership registration from hunter to racehorse.

Mayor Issues Proclamation

PROCLAMATION

WHEREAS music plays an increasingly important role in our world today; and
WHEREAS music is one of the most sublime of human pursuits and is subscribed to by all races and creeds; and
WHEREAS music is the language of all peoples and one of the greatest forces in creating peace and harmony; and
WHEREAS the National Federation of Music Clubs—dedicated to encouraging young musicians, to increasing musical knowledge, and to advancing American music—and its cooperating organizations, join forces to direct attention to the dynamic influence of music in everyday living;

NOW THEREFORE, I, Sam Strong, Mayor of the City of Hope, do hereby proclaim the week of May 7-14, 1972, as National Music Week and ask that all citizens of this community observe and take part in activities, recognizing the importance of music, musicians, and musical organizations to the cultural life of our City, State, Nation, and World.

Dated this 3rd day of May, A.D. 1972.

Few Car Owners Know Their Operating Cost

By VERN HAUGLAND
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Federal Highway Administration said today that although Americans spent more than $20 billion last year for new automobiles most of them don't know how much it costs to own and operate a car.

In its publication, "Cost of Operating an Automobile," the agency said the typical owner of a standard-size 1972 automobile will spend $13,553 to buy and operate the car for 10 years—an average of 13.55 cents a mile.

The owner of a 1972 compact car will pay $10,808, or 10.81 cents a mile over the 10-year, 100,000-mile period. The owner of a 1972 subcompact model will pay out $9,444, or 9.4 cents a mile over the decade from assembly line to junkyard.

"During this period, the standard-size-car owner will pay $2,787 for some 7,350 gallons of gasoline," the publication said. "He will pay $2,147 to keep the vehicle maintained and in repair, $1,350 to insure it, and over $1,800 for garaging, parking and tolls."

"His state and federal automotive-tax bill, most of which goes to support the roads he drives on, will amount to $1,319—about 9.7 per cent of total costs."

The publication also reported that: "Nationwide sales records of 1972 standard-size cars and compacts showed that 70 per cent or more had power steering, more than 90 per cent had automatic transmissions, and 90 per cent had radios. More than 80 per cent of the standard-size cars also had air conditioning. For the subcompacts, power steering was virtually nonexistent, but 45 to 50 per cent had automatic transmissions, and more than 80 per cent had radios.

"Depreciation is by far the greatest single cost of owning and operating an automobile. First-year depreciation is relatively high—18 cents a mile for the standard-size car in suburban use, 11.2 cents for the compact, and 7.8 cents a mile for the subcompacts, in total costs of ownership and operation."

Foreign Takeover of Companies Inevitable

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — Canada's intentions to discourage foreign takeover of its companies unless stiff requirements of self-interest are met is nothing that wasn't expected. It was inevitable.

And it is inevitable too that similar confrontations are developing in other nations where industry is falling into the hands of foreign companies with foreign allegiances who, it is felt, take more than they contribute.

Whether they do is debatable. What counts is the attitude of the country's citizens, and in an age of nationalism they often resent what they once welcomed.

The scenario is repeated time after time in country after country. The nation is underdeveloped. It lacks capital and other resources of its own, so it invites development by skilled foreign companies.

So eager are they to obtain these skills that they sometimes offer tax incentives to the big corporations of the developed world.

There are thousands of companies today who need foreign investments, if not for the markets that can be developed there then for the natural resources that can be extracted or cultivated and the labor force that can be developed or exploited.

We have in the industrial world today what are called multinational companies. They are too big for one nation: they consider the entire world their home and their market.

But there is a catch: No matter if they operate in 50 countries, they are based in one. No matter how carefully they deal with the local citizenry, obey their laws, respect their society, encourage their culture—their eventual allegiance is to another country.

Eventually, the conflicts arise. The developing country becomes stronger, prouder, more self-sufficient—or so it thinks until it observes how dependent it is to foreigners.

It begins then to fear the consequences to its political and cultural identity, and soon the rumblings of discontent are enacted into restrictive legislation, and in some countries into expropriation.

The trap in the latter is that some countries are more dependent than they realize. They need foreign industry if they are to have jobs and homes and food. To eject the foreigners is to spite themselves.

Canada intends to apply the criteria of self-interest to future takeovers of its companies by foreigners, but it does not, it seems, intend to otherwise restrict future foreign investments.

Nevertheless, its action is indicative of the concern being shown around the world as corporations invade each other's base countries.

There are many multinational companies, but there are relatively few effective multinational laws and standards to govern their activities.

Big Voting Foulup in Ohio

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — Investigations mounted on several fronts today to pinpoint causes of Tuesday's primary election blunder that deprived thousands of Greater Clevelanders of their right to vote.

Officials of the Cuyahoga County Board of Elections estimate that 12 precincts never got operative Tuesday and some 6,000 voters in those precincts were denied a vote.

No estimate has been made on how many persons were turned away or left in anger at other polling places not prepared for operation.

An idea of the seriousness of the voter loss may come from the final number of voters, since officials had predicted an excess of 400,000 voters in the primary.

Members of the election board were to appear in federal court this morning in connection with a suit filed by backers of Sen. George McGovern, D-S.D., asking that ballots be impounded for a count supervised by federal marshals.

U.S. District Court Chief Judge Frank Battisti, who is hearing the McGovern suit, also was due to hear a suit by congressional candidate Thomas Shaughnessy asking the county primary be voided and a new one held in 30 days.

Meanwhile, Ohio Secretary of State Ted Brown says a probe of the election will begin Monday.

County commissioners estimate about $300,000 in overtime pay was compiled by election workers when Battisti ordered polling places to stay open an extra five and one-half hours Tuesday night.

"We tried to introduce 2,500 machines in our election process too rapidly," said Saul Stillman, who, along with Robert Hughes, holds down a $9,600 a-year, part-time Republican post on the board.

The primary was the first fully-automated election held in the county, and Stillman said he hoped the chaos in the primary did not "develop into a blanket indictment of the voting machine process."

Voting machines were never delivered to some voting places and machines did not work at others.

Dedicates Library Wing

HYDE PARK, N.Y. (AP) — All five children of the late Franklin and Eleanor Roosevelt joined 700 guests in dedicating a new $1.5 million wing of the Franklin Delano Roosevelt Library.

The new wing of the presidential library was named in honor of Eleanor Roosevelt and built by the Eleanor Roosevelt Memorial Foundation.

Anna Roosevelt Halsted, the Roosevelt's only daughter and oldest child, spoke for the family at the ceremonies held Wednesday under a huge tent in a pouring rainstorm. Also present were James, Franklin Jr., Elliott, and John Roosevelt.

Among those who paid tributes to the former first lady were U.N. Secretary-General Kurt Waldheim and Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller, who read a telegram from President Nixon.

Lodge Turns Teacher

BEVERLY, Mass. (AP) — Former Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge has turned teacher.

Lodge, a former U.S. Senator, Army officer in World War II, U. S. representative to the United Nations 1953-60 and President Nixon's personal envoy to the Vatican, is teaching a night course on "The Nation and the World" at North Shore Community College.

Newsman were not permitted to attend Lodge's first class Wednesday night. Officials said the 90-minute session was attended by 35 students.

Candidate Makes Promises

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Mack Harbour of Paragould, a Democratic candidate for governor, said Wednesday that if elected he would dedicate himself "to solving the problems" of families whose annual income is less than $2,000 a year.

"It is time that your leaders recognize that of the 452,000 families in Arkansas, approximately 215,000 have total family incomes of less than $3,000 a year," Harbour said in remarks prepared for a television speech in Jonesboro and Little Rock.

The candidate said job training and more industry were needed in the state to help families with low incomes.

Harbour also said the state should "restore discipline to our school systems so that teachers can work effectively."

He said he also wanted to be the governor that "brings adequate health facilities and manpower to rural Arkansas."

He said his administration would not ask for additional taxes.

Humphrey in Delayed Win

By PAUL G.S. LLOYD
Associated Press Writer

Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey has won a delayed victory in the Ohio presidential primary election, defeating Sen. George McGovern to win the state's 38 at-large delegate votes to the Democratic National Convention.

Humphrey surrendered many of the state's 115 congressional district delegates to McGovern, whose supporters said the South Dakota senator would stand Humphrey "dead even."

With 90 per cent of Ohio's 12,648 polling places tabulated, Humphrey had 38 at-large votes and 38 from eight congressional districts, while McGovern had 64 delegates from 13 congressional districts.

Thirteen other delegates were won by local favorite sons. The split ticket vote, however, could change the vote totals, possibly dividing the results. Those figures weren't expected until late today or perhaps Friday.

Humphrey defeated Gov. George Wallace of Alabama in Indiana, getting 47 per cent of the ballots cast and 55 of the 76 delegates to the national convention.

The Ohio primary was plagued by problems—polling places locked, voting machines not working, not enough paper ballots and claims of improper instructions to voters.

The primary troubles sparked two suits: both in U.S. District Court in Cleveland—center of Cuyahoga County and the main problem area. A federal judge in Cleveland hears a request today to impound Cuyahoga ballots and have them counted by federal marshals. The other suit seeks to void the county election.

Tennessee holds its first presidential primary today. Wallace was expected to win all of the state's 49 Democratic delegates.

North Carolina's primary is Saturday. That election has narrowed to a contest between Wallace and Terry Sanford, former North Carolina governor.

Shoot on the Spot

SAIGON (AP) — President Nguyen Van Thieu today ordered police in South Vietnam's cities and towns to "shoot on the spot" anyone engaging in terrorism or public disturbances.

The order, issued to military region commanders and province and district chiefs, was aimed at preventing enemy terrorism and maintaining public order during the North Vietnamese offensive. Allied intelligence officials have enemy documents which indicate the Viet Cong plan terrorism and civil disruptions as a later phase of the offensive.

South Vietnamese and U.S. officials also are concerned about keeping order among the population if the fighting continues to go against Saigon's forces.

The northern city of Hue, already menaced by the enemy, has been subjected to scattered looting and other disturbances by military deserters and troops involved in the rout from Quang Tri. Military police are trying to round up the troublemakers.

The official government news agency, Vietnam Press, said Thieu told the officials all subversive activities—including robbery, the use of weapons and explosives which harm life, property or government facilities—"must be considered as initiated by Communist cadres aimed at taking power," or by "reactionary elements in collusion with the enemy."

Cemetery Dinner

Delight's Annual Cemetery Dinner will be held Saturday, May 20, at the Cafeteria from 11 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. The charge is $1.00 for adults and 50 cents for students under 12.

No trays will be carried out but if you want a tray you may get one to carry out by going through the line.

The money raised will go for the upkeep of the cemetery.

The menu is as follows: ham, chicken and dressing, green beans, corn, sweet potatoes, pie and cake, coffee and tea.

All you can eat. Come and have a good meal and visit with friends.

Biological Tides May Result in Murders

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Outbreaks of murder may be triggered by the moon tugging on "biological tides" inside the human body, a team of psychiatric researchers has found.

Dr. Arnold L. Lieber, a senior resident in psychiatry at the University of Miami's medical school, said Wednesday a two-year study had established a "scientifically sound relationship" between phases of the moon and the murder rate in Dade County.

Lieber said a chart of Miami-area homicides over the last 15 years plotted according to moon phases looks remarkably like a chart of ocean tides.

Using computer programs, Lieber and Dr. Carolyn R. Sherin of the University of Miami, analyzed nearly 1,900 murders that occurred between 1956 and 1970.

The data revealed that the county's murder rate began to rise about 24 hours before the full moon, reached a peak at full moon, then dropped back before climbing again to a secondary peak at the new moon.

While the effect of the moon's gravitational pull on humans is small, Lieber said it may be enough to touch off emotional instability in "borderline" cases. This instability is reflected in the murder rate, which he terms a reliable measure of its effect on the general population.

Lieber said the makeup of the body itself helped him turn to the concept of "biological tides" to explain the phenomenon. The body is "a microcosm comprising essentially the same elements and in similar proportions as the earth's surface—approximately 80 per cent water and 20 per cent minerals," he said.

"I feel that eventually we are going to show that any organism, human or animal, is an integral part of the universe and responds to changes like variations in the solar cycle and the lunar cycle."

When the moon and sun are in proper position to exert their greatest gravitational force on the earth, Lieber added, there seems to be even a more marked increase in "ruthless and bizarre" violent crime.

Child Struck by Auto

ARKADELPHIA, Ark. (AP) — State Police said that Rebecca L. Rogers, 7, of Arkadelphia was killed Wednesday when struck by a car as she walking on U. S. 67 about eight miles north of here.

Fear Defenders May Be Bypassed

By RICHARD BLYSTONE
Associated Press Writer

MY CHANH, Vietnam (AP) — U.S. advisers on the new northern front expressed concern today that enemy troops might roll around the remaining South Vietnamese defenders and punch toward Hue behind their backs.

"They're trying to make an end run on us at the foot of the mountains," a U.S. Marine adviser, Maj. Don Price of Flagstaff, Ariz., said at a command post along the My Chanh River about 20 miles north of Hue and 12 miles south of the fallen city of Quang Tri.

"If they can separate us, cut us off, we'll have problems. But I don't think they can do it," Price said. "The morale is high here and the situation is well in hand."

U.S. officers said the front was holding firm and the extent of the enemy's flanking attempt remained unclear. South Vietnamese marine units probing to the west had no sizable contact and considered the threat was not immediate, they added.

However, sources said seven to 10 tanks were reported south of the front in an area 17 miles north of Hue and informants said nearby Camp Evans took about 20 rounds of 130mm artillery fire from the northwest.

Maj. Robert Sheridan of Burke, Va., another adviser with the marines, said the enemy is "spread pretty thin now."

"I'll bet that for the last couple of days they've been eating everything they could find up at Quang Tri," he added. "I don't think they expected to get Quang Tri. I think it was a shock to them. As soon as they get themselves together I suppose they'll be ready to go

Trial Set in Commune Death

HOHENWALD, Tenn. (AP) — Trial has been set for July 24 for Stephen Gaskin and three other members of a religious commune near Summertown on charges in the suffocation of another commune member.

Gaskin, a former instructor at San Francisco State College, and the others have been released on bonds of $1,000 each pending trial before Circuit Court Judge John Henderson. They are charged with involuntary manslaughter.

Charged in the March 28 death of Judy Kowler, 23, of Forest Hills, N.Y., are Gaskin, Mike Schlichting, 24, of Oakland, Calif.; Robert Powers, 20, of Cleveland, Ohio; and Thomas V. Dickerson, 22, of Radford, Va.

Miss Kowler died following a seizure. Witnesses said she accidentally suffocated when the men sought to restrain her with a blanket.

The 500-member commune lives on a 1,000-acre farm near Summertown, south of Nashville and near the Alabama line, where the settled after the group moved to Tennessee in a caravan from San Francisco some 18 months ago.

after Hue." At the My Chanh River front, Capt. Richard Hodory of Corvallis, Ore., said he was not concerned about being among the northernmost Americans in

Things a Columnist Might Never Know

NEW YORK (AP) — Things a columnist might never know if he didn't open his mail:

One way to cool a teen-ager when he gets too persnickety is point out to him that, according to one legal definition, anyone under 21 years of age is an infant.

Communications scientists estimate the average person can make as many as 700,000 different meaningful gestures through body movements and facial gestures. Think how eloquent he would be if he had that many words in his vocabulary.

Speaking of languages, Francis Bacon, Elizabethan public official and essayist, didn't have much belief in the durability of his native tongue. He translated some of his essays into Latin because he doubted they would survive if printed only in English.

Well, someone at last has gone to the trouble of figuring what a snail's pace really is. A snail, according to the National Geographic Society, roars along at a speed of .000033 miles an hour. On the return trip, if he has got whatever he wanted, he may slow down somewhat. No use in wearing out his motor young. After all, it only generates 1-25-millionth of one horsepower.

Some animals do have extraordinary appetites, don't they? A thirsty camel, for example, can gulp down 25 gallons of water in a few minutes. And a killer whale may swallow as many as 24 whole seals, still struggling, in a single meal.

Quotable notables: "There will always be about the same percentage of people capable of real love, and there will always be about the same percentage of people who aren't."—John Galsworthy.

Sign in a Broadway shop: "This is the last going out of business sale this month."

Dirful: If you think the human situation is hopeless today, you might be consoled to know that someone always has considered mankind to be in this plight in every age and period of history. In the 16th century, religious reformer John Calvin wrote in his Dedication of the Christian Religion: "It is evident to all who can see, that the world is inundated with more than an ocean of evils; that it is overrun with numerous destructive pests; that everything is fast verging to ruin, so that we must altogether despair of human affairs."

Candidate Raps Bumpers

JONESBORO, Ark. (AP) — State Sen. Q. Byrum Hurst of Hot Springs, a Democratic candidate for governor, accused Gov. Dale Bumpers Wednesday of not discussing the issues in the campaign.

In an interview at Jonesboro, Hurst said the No. 1 issue was the reorganization plan approved by the 1971 legislature as proposed by Bumpers. He said the plan had brought mass confusion and chaos and said he would propose a bill to repeal it.

Hurst said Bumpers was elected 16 months ago simply because an advertising agency selected him.

"He was elected under false colors and his first (legislative) session was under false colors," Hurst said. "Today he refuses to discuss the issues of the campaign and he is not giving the people an accounting of his stewardship in the first 18 months as governor and I'm asking him to do that."

Asked if he thought Bumpers was being honest with the people on fiscal affairs, Hurst said: "Gov. Bumpers may be honest with himself and with the people but he doesn't understand fiscal affairs. No governor with a good understanding of our tax system and fiscal affairs would invest Arkansas' money, all our money, in trust funds, teachers trust funds, retirement funds and bond markets out of the state when the Arkansas banks and institutions can use that money and can guarantee that same yield and then loan the money to Arkansas citizens."

The state Board of Finance voted Wednesday morning to place $8 million in idle state funds in state banks.

The National Park Service oversees 38 parks and more than 240 historic sites and monuments.

Tomorrow Is Something to Fear

By TOM TIEDE
QUANG DIEN, Vietnam—(NEA)—As rural existence goes in this country, Le Thi Thien had it fairly good. She was the wife of a hamlet chief, had five relatively healthy children, was sheltered in a snug home, never wanted for food and enjoyed the blissful comforts of ignorance common to middle-ground peasants in this war-torn land.

Now all that's ended. Now she's a refugee. The drop in fortune started a few years ago for Mrs. Thien. When her husband, a respected leader of a tiny hamlet near Vietnam's Demilitarized Zone (Dong Duong), was conscripted into the South Vietnamese army, he marched off one day and never returned. She heard he was killed in a battle somewhere. Foot Blown away. There wasn't enough of him left, officials said, to bring home to bury.

The disaster forced Mrs. Thien to fend for herself and her children. It wasn't easy. It never is for war widows here. She was promised government assistance to smooth the way a bit, but never got it. So she hired herself out for servant work. She tried selling roadside pineapples to troop convoys. She took in washing.

One day her No. 2 son became ill. She had no money to get professional help, so she turned to one of the touring shamans that proliferate here. The quack gave the boy an injection in the leg. A few days later the leg stopped growing. Now the lad is a cripple, on crutches, another burden to his aged mother.

Down, down, down. All had happened. Mrs. Thien says. The home deteriorated. The clothes did too. The ladder emptied.

Then recently, the woman hit bottom.

Last month, during the early stages of North Vietnam's offensive across the DMZ, Mrs. Thien woke up to hear a terrible bombardment of mortars not far from her hut. She looked out to see the night sky blinking with explosions. The war was at her doorstep.

She dressed her kids. Huddled a few belongings into wicker bags. And joined thousands of others in a flight to safety.

Today, Mrs. Thien and her children are living on a slab of cement in this tiny village north of Hue. So are dozens of others.

Pitiful sight. Pieces of canvas have been strung up to keep the rain off. Children lie about sleeping in soiled pants. Flies swarm around the cooking pots. Someone has vomited and the pack dogs are feasting. An old woman is curled into a fetal position with stomach cramps. A man is picking the fleas out of his wife's hair. A chicken with a broken leg pecks at the ground. A woman stands up, licks her pant leg, and with miserable unconcern urinates on a stone. It is terribly hot.

Mrs. Thien wears a conical hat.

Her teeth are black from chewing betel nut. Her hairline is retreating. There are scabs and scales on her cheeks. She is 45, but old.

"Look," she says, using the only English word she knows. She lifts her crippled son up for observation. He is 12 years old, yet less than 3 feet tall and so light he can be hoisted like a paper box. "Look." She takes his pants down to show his shriveled leg. It is discolored, thin as an arrow and it wobbles. "Look." She shakes the leg and the knee and ankle wiggle in an obscene dance.

The boy does not protest. He floats there, in the woman's hands, like a puppet. Then, almost by reflex, though he has not been instructed, he holds out his hand and spreads five sticky fingers.

Begging for money. "You give?"

The begging, actually, is not precisely necessary. Though past refugees here have been largely ignored by their nation and their world, some help has been given the latest batch. Students from Hue University have assisted thousands of the spring offensive victims. Northern legislators have been unified in their call for government aid. Thus the wretched thousands continue to survive.

But what a survival. Mrs. Thien has a huge bump on her leg from a snakebite. Her youngest daughter cannot sleep at night. A soldier stole one of the family's bags of belongings. And then there is tomorrow. Tomorrow, Mrs. Thien is afraid of tomorrow.

"Cai gi se xay ra cho toi?" "What," she asks, "will happen to me next?"

READY TO ZERO IN, South Vietnamese on an armored personnel carrier and a contingent of tanks awaits the go-sign near Cam Lo up in the battle-wracked DMZ region of South Vietnam.

The final session of the Camelot mixed pairs had just started. Lancelot sat South at table one with Elaine the Fair in the North. La Belle Isolde was West with the great Tristram in the East. The peerless knight quickly reached four hearts after Elaine's single raise and Isolde opened the jack of clubs.

Lancelot called for the three from dummy and it was up to Tristram to play. Tristram studied and studied. Finally he turned to Lancelot and said, "Methinks thou hast a subtle reason for thy play of a low club. Haven't thee?"

Then Tristram rose with his ace and returned the

Elton John Scores Classic Comeback

By ERNESTINE GUGLIELMO

FICKLE MUSIC WORLD—Elton John, yesterday's fallen idol, hasn't completely jumped the pedestal. Although his place of honor has passed on to a dozen or so overnight superstars, Elton looks like he's still clinging to stardom. He's putting a new sound together by adding symphonic orchestration to his act. Elton performed at London's Royal Philharmonic and is planning to do the same at the New York and Los Angeles Philharmonics. So for all you die-hard Eltonians, he'll be back on the fickle music scene in May.

UNDER OVER ALL AROUND—The Grateful Dead, the most popular of the underground groups, have made it to the top. The Top Forties, that is. They have consummated the dream of all top 40-ers. They received a gold album, their first to date.

TRAVEL TIPS—We bring more news to the soon-to-be-out-of-school students who don't want to face the slim pickings on the job market. Those going abroad this summer for work-study breaks should check out a new book called "Whole World Handbook." This 312-page book covers six continents with practical information on cheap ways to fly, where to apply for jobs, how to obtain visas, scholarships and loans. You'll also find straight info on drugs, black market, hitchhiking, family life in these countries. The book is $2.95 at your local bookstore. Or if they don't have it, add 25 cents for postage and send it to Council on International Education (CIEE), Dept. WWH, 777 United Nations Plaza, New York, N.Y. 10017. If you don't want to spring for the money, there's a 10-page booklet called "Working Abroad" listing summer jobs in eight countries that's FREE. Write to the same address, Dept. WA.

NOTHING NEW—Amid all the legal hassles between Grand Funk Railroad and ex-manager Terry Knight, Capitol Records is rushing out a special double-set album by the group. The album, "Mark, Don and Mel 1969-1971," is nothing new, just a compilation of old stuff. But it came as a surprise since Terry Knight announced that because of the lawsuit Grand Funk Railroad couldn't perform under that name and were "halted in their tracks." And it seems ludicrous that Terry Knight would assemble the group from the past three years after filing suit against the group for $55 million.

WHOLE EARTH WINS—"The Last Whole Earth Catalog" will be awarded first prize in the National Book Awards for contemporary affairs category. This put many publishers in a frenzy. But others contend that the catalogue was a good indication of a changing society.

THE FINE LINE—A new set of 15 vinyl records, "The Fine Line," is being sold by the Rolling Stones. The set is priced at $29.95.

queen of spades. La Belle Isolde collected two spades and trump to set the peerless one trick.

If Tristram had ducked the first club he would never have gained the lead. Eventually Lancelot would have discarded one of dummy's spades on his fourth diamond and made his contract.

Like other meetings between the two greatest knights of the round table this turned out to be a no-decision contest. At the other tables the jack of clubs was always covered. East would play his ace automatically and declarer would be down that same one trick.

Hijackers Surrender

ISTANBUL (AP) — Four Turkish airplane hijackers surrendered to Bulgarian authorities in Sofia today although the Turkish government was reported to have rejected their demands to free six terrorists—three of them condemned to death—in Turkey.

The hijackers abandoned their threats to blow up the plane and those aboard, Foreign Minister Haluk Bayuken told parliament a short time after the Bulgarian Telegraph Agency reported from Sofia: "The group of armed youths who forced the jet aircraft of the Turkish civil airlines to land at Sofia, left the aircraft and handed over their weapons to the Bulgarian authorities. The passengers and crew are in complete safety, the undamaged aircraft is at the Sofia airport."

The semiofficial Anatolia News Agency, citing unofficial sources, reported earlier that the hijackers' demands had been "totally rejected" at an emergency meeting of the Cabinet and the National Security Council.

The Turkish Airlines DC9 was hijacked Wednesday while on a flight from Ankara to Istanbul. There were 63 passengers aboard at the time, but some were allowed to leave the plane to receive medical treatment.

The hijackers, three students and a photographer, have allowed two passengers off the plane to receive medical treatment. Two of the three stewardesses also were allowed off the plane for medical aid.

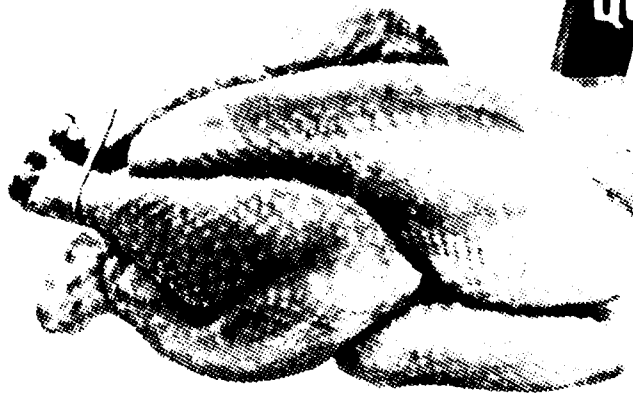

During the night groups of passengers were allowed off the jet for a breath of air.

The plane, sitting at an edge of Sofia airport, was surrounded by police, fire trucks and ambulances. However, air traffic at the airport was not affected.

Bulgaria already has granted the hijackers political asylum, because of "concern for the lives of persons on board the aircraft, according to the Bulgarian News Agency.

In Istanbul government leaders met again in emergency session, to consider the hijackers' demands.

Wallace Favored in Tennessee Vote

By DON McLEOD
Associated Press Writer
NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — George C. Wallace and a school busing referendum, two of the hottest political items in Tennessee, generated the ballot excitement today in this state's first presidential primary.

Polls open at 7 a.m. they close as late as 8 p.m. CDT in Memphis at the western end of the state.

Wallace was expected to carry the state and most of the nine congressional districts and all of the 49 Tennessee delegates to the Democratic National Convention.

Tennessee would be Wallace's first primary victory outside the Deep South and he predicts it will be a springboard to a northern breakthrough in Michigan May 16.

On the crowded Democratic ballot with him were Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, Sen. George McGovern, Sen. Edmund S. Muskie and seven others. President Nixon and Reps. Paul N. McCloskey and John M. Ashbrook were on the Republican side. Nixon was expected to win by a wide margin.

Crossover voting by Republicans was expected to help Wallace and was one reason given by potential Democratic convention delegates who are hinting they may not vote for Wallace at the Miami Beach convention even if he carries Tennessee.

Delegates, although technically bound by the primary results for up to two ballots, are selected separately in caucuses which have been dominated so far by McGovern supporters, blacks, women and youth.

The busing referendum asks the voters if they favor a constitutional amendment to ban busing for the sake of racial balance in public schools.

Wallace has gone virtually unchallenged in Tennessee. Humphrey had not campaigned here. McGovern has not visited the state but has local organizations. Sen. Henry M. Jackson was building a promising campaign last winter but left for good when Wallace moved in. Rep. Shirley Chisholm has campaigned for the large black vote in Memphis.

Cache River Project Challenged

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The plaintiffs in the lawsuit challenging the Army Engineers' Cache River-Bayou DeView channelization project rested their case Wednesday, and the government was to begin presenting its case when the hearing resumed in U. S. District Court here today.

The plaintiffs, a group of environmentalists, presented four witnesses Wednesday who testified that the Engineers' environmental impact statement concerning the $60 million project had omitted vital ecological information.

The plaintiffs contend that the statement filed by the Engineers does not meet the standards for completeness set by the National Environmental Policy Act of 1969.

The project would consist of dredging, clearing and realigning more than 230 miles of the Cache and its major tributaries.

Army Engineers maintain the channelization would reduce flooding and that the wetlands that would be drained could be reworked as fields for row crops.

Dr. Charles A. Wharton of Atlanta, a professor of biology and ecology at Georgia State University, testified that the impact statement had not dealt fully with the adverse conditions that would result from the drainage of the wetlands along the Cache and Bayou DeView.

He said animal and plant life in the wetlands had adapted to an environment along the river in which the flood plain was inundated almost every year. To drain the wetlands and end the yearly flooding of the swamps, he said, would severely alter the ecology of the area and change the basic nature of what he called "a genuine and vital life support system."

gould, assistant chief of game in charge of migratory waterfowl for the state Game and Fish Commission, testified about the Engineers' proposed mitigation plan. The plan would set aside about 30,000 acres as a fish and wildlife refuge to replace the areas destroyed by the channelization project. Donaldson testified that the acreage suitable for duck hunting in the proposed mitigation plan area would not compensate for the loss of green-timbered wet-

Restraining Order Issued

WYNNE, Ark. (AP) — A temporary restraining order was issued Wednesday by Chancery Court Judge George Cracraft that limited picketing activities by strikers at the Halstead Industries plant here.

The company sought the order. No date was set for a hearing on whether to make the order permanent.

The order prohibits pickets from the plant property and limits picketing to two persons at each entry to the plant property. The order also forbids pickets from molesting employees who choose to go to work.

Picketing began Sunday with a wildcat strike employees said stemmed from a new work schedule.

A company spokesman said only about 10 of the plant's 300 employees would be affected by the schedule.

SBA Award Presented

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Richard F. Toll Jr., 41, of Little Rock, president of Toll Manufacturing Co. and the Rol-Lift Corp., was presented the Small Business Administration's Arkansas Small Businessman of the Year Award Wednesday.

The Toll firm produces transformer cases, paint bake ovens, specialized conveyors and other components for business and industry. The Rol-Lift Corp. makes and distributes hand hydraulic pallet trucks for business and industry.

Gunshot Wound Kills Youth

HELENA, Ark. (AP) — Robert McClintock, 13, of Helena was shot to death accidentally Wednesday at a friend's home here, police said.

Police said McClintock and two other youths were playing around a camper and that one of the youths, Tommy Walquist, 15, of Helena went inside looking for some magazines.

Police said he reached on a shelf and found a six-shot, .22-caliber pistol. Police said the youth turned and said, "Look what I found."

Officers said he pulled the trigger and the bullet struck McClintock under the arm and traveled to his heart.

Police Chief Kenneth Winfrey said that from all information it appeared the shooting was accidental, but he said an investigation was continuing.

McClintock was the son of Mr. and Mrs. W. C. McClintock.

PERSONAL FINANCE

By CARLTON SMITH

Watch for a development which, in the next couple of months, could chop as much as 25 per cent off the price of many consumer goods ... if you know where to shop.

Merchandising organizations that carry a good deal of weight are plotting an assault on fair trade laws, now being enforced in three-fourths of the states to maintain retail prices at levels fixed by manufacturers.

As an example of what fair trade prices mean to the consumer, a New England chain of discount stores decided earlier this year to ignore the prices stipulated by the maker of a widely sold line of watches. For a while, it was selling the watches for 25 to 30 per cent less than competitors who stuck to fair-trade prices. Then the manufacturer got a court order, forcing the chain to sell at the higher, fixed prices, or not at all.

A witness before the Federal Price Commission recently blasted manufacturers who "apparently choose to sabotage the nation's anti-inflationary efforts by protecting their high prices behind the fair trade shield." The spokesman, urging repeal of federal backup legislation for the fair trade laws, was Kurt Barnard, executive vice-president of Mass Retailing Institute, an association representing more than 10,000 discount stores.

It is individual states that enact fair trade laws—but since they're price-fixing devices, in violation of federal antitrust laws, they are made possible only by federal legislation that exempts the fair trade laws from antitrust regulations.

Barnard, in asking for repeal of the federal exemption legislation, told the Price Commission that fair trade laws are "flatly in conflict with your Economic Stabilization Program."

But whatever view federal policy makers may take of fair-trade prices, they're due to come under direct attack soon by strong merchandising groups. At a national meeting of appliance dealers, on the West Coast, the subject of fair trade laws got long and heated discussion behind closed doors.

Now, we've been told, at least four major buying organizations in the appliance field have legal staffs charting the course for a defiance of the price-fixing laws. Action is expected within a matter of weeks.

Barnard, who told the Price Commission that his organization is "bitter" about fair trade laws that make it illegal for stores to grant discounts on many merchandise lines, says 30 states are now enforcing the laws. A few others have fair trade "provisions" that aren't actively enforced.

Consumer items affected by fair trade laws are principally appliances, clothing, housewares and cosmetics along with large numbers of individual products.

Where fair trade laws are nonexistent or not enforced, said Barnard, discount prices run from 5 to 25 per cent lower, and sometimes as much as 30 per cent.

Upcoming Spring Art Show

Mrs. Karen Morris shown with one of her paintings on display.

Mrs. Karen Morris is shown with one of her paintings now on exhibit in the lobby of the First National Bank. The exhibit is one of several to be shown in connection with the upcoming Spring Art Show. Just as last year the show will be in the garden of Mr. and Mrs. Earl O'Neal. Work shown this week at the Bank was done by Karen Morris, a member of the Third District Arts and Crafts Association, and some of her students.

A native of Texarkana, Karen is married to Charles Morris, Medical Technologist at Memorial Hospital. They have two children and still she has found time to teach an Art class in her home. She has studied Art at Columbia University, New York, N.Y., and Montreal, Canada. She also attended Southern State here in Arkansas. Among the several one-man shows she has had some of them have been in Texarkana. Her paintings along with some of her students can be seen during business hours at the First National Bank this week, and later with others of the Third District Arts and Crafts Association show, on May 21 in the Annual Spring Art Show.

FDA Plans to Open Files to Public

By JOHN STOWELL
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Conceding its long tradition of secrecy has become a legal and political pain in the neck, the Food and Drug Administration today announced plans to open its files to as much public inspection as the law allows.

Peter Hutt, the agency's general counsel, predicted the new policy would unlock about 90 per cent of information in FDA files, compared with the 10 per cent now available to the public.

But he cautioned, "This is not going to mean every piece of paper in the FDA is immediately going to be available."

The public-disclosure proposal, covering 58 typewritten pages, allows interested persons 60 days to comment after publication in the Federal Register. Spokesmen for the food and drug industries privately expressed alarm at the idea but withheld public statements until they have time to study the proposals.

Patterned in the spirit of the Freedom of Information Act, the FDA's open-files plan is believed to go further than any other federal regulatory agency's.

Basically, the FDA proposes to make public safety and effectiveness data for food additives, color additives and antibiotic drugs unless companies can demonstrate the information should remain secret.

In the case of food and drug companies that already have submitted confidential material, the FDA said it would give them six months to justify continued secrecy.

Much of the drug information the FDA said, "is still highly valuable in that it gives the company having it a competitive advantage over others who are required by law to obtain it in order to receive FDA approval of a product or ingredient prior to marketing."

Hutt said the FDA has about 2,000 food-additive regulations and between 17,000 and 18,000 new-drug applications, many of them no longer containing valuable trade secrets.

Food-additive information would remain secret only in rare instances, Hutt said. Several food additives and colorings are suspected by scientists and consumer groups of being hazardous to health.

Public disclosure would prevail in FDA correspondence with company officials, congressmen and the public, including minutes of meetings and summaries of telephone conversations.

Communications between government employees would remain confidential, however, as would reports from persons voluntarily supplying information now required by law.

Warm Reception for Bumpers

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Gov. Dale Bumpers said Wednesday the reception he has been receiving on the campaign trail was "surprisingly warm."

Bumpers, seeking re-election to a second term, said he had not anticipated the support he has been receiving because after 16 months in office the number of his detractors has grown.

Romania May Try to Ease Mid-East Crisis

By DAVID LANCASHIRE

Associated Press Writer

TEL AVIV (AP) — Premier Golda Meir departed for Romania today amid reports that Bucharest may try to help defuse the Arab-Israeli crisis.

"When friends speak together openly and frankly about serious problems, something eventually comes of it," she said before boarding an El Al jetliner.

Asked if Romania would arrange a meeting between Israeli and Arab leaders, Mrs. Meir said:

"When I meet them I'll tell you about it. And if I don't meet them I also will tell you. As you know we are ready day and night to meet Arab delegates."

Mrs. Meir, dressed in a dark blue suit, refused, however, to predict the outcome of the visit. "There's a Jewish saying that prophesy is given to babies and fools," she said. "I'm not very wise, but how foolish can one be."

It is the first trip by an Israeli government leader to the Communist world and Israeli officials describe the journey as a major event. They see little chance, however, that it will produce any immediate peace move in the Middle East.

Foreign Minister Abba Eban said Romania was not a potential mediator but was "only interested in conveying and explaining the positions of both sides" in the Arab-Israeli stalemate.

Mrs. Meir, who turned 74 Wednesday, said she doubted "I shall bring peace back with me in my suitcase."

For security reasons, the government declined to say how long its leader will be in Bucharest, but Mrs. Meir's delicate, door-opening mission was expected to last several days.
